3rd Quarter of 2021

From the Co-Presidents...

Happy Fall!

Just like the change in weather to crisp, cool temperatures and the changing color of the leaves on the trees, we have some changes to share. 1) We welcomed COL(Ret) Mary Beth Taylor to the FAWMA Board of Directors. Formerly on the Publicity Education and Military Liaison Committee, Mary Beth has already been an asset to FAWMA and will continue to be as a board member. 2) Thanks to you, our donors and friends, we had a successful T-shirt Fundraiser through Custom Ink. We sold 128 shirts and raised $1800. Please continue to "strike a pose" in your AWM tee by posting to #armywomensmuseum. We LOVE to see pictures of you sporting your tees and promoting the museum! 3) We are excited to report that our digital educator, Micaela Procopio, has partnered with several school systems to deliver programs to fulfill the Cameron Foundation Grant FAWMA was awarded this past spring. We were thrilled to have been invited by the Cameron Foundation to apply for a subsequent grant for education and marketing. 4) Tribute Bricks are still for sale, but you will notice that we have increased the price of the 4" x 8" brick from $50 to $100 to provide more dollars to our beloved AWM. Check out the new color options on our website and stay tuned for our holiday brick campaign. 5) FAWMA was proud to support the Gender Integration Initiative outlined below by Tracy Bradford, the AWM Curator. The Army-level multimedia tool kit is a game changer, and the result of the hard work and creative efforts of Tracy, the Ft. Lee Army Museum Enterprise, and the Center for Military History Teams! And we have to give BIG kudos to General (R) Martin Dempsey's powerful intro to the "Trust Transcends Gender" video. 6) Finally, our AWM was selected by Ft. Lee to host the visit of the Army Confederate Renaming Commission. Tracy provides exciting details below, and you can check out the website at <https://www.thenamingcommission.gov/>.

Before we know it, the holidays will be upon us. I know it's early, but since our next FAWMA Focus is published in January 2022, we want to wish you a happy holiday season.

And as we like to say, "Teamwork makes the dream work!" Thanks for being part of our team!

Curator's Corner...

It's Fall Y'all!

As we enter my favorite time of the year, I am happy to report that Fort Lee is looking beautiful as the leaves begin to change. This transition comes as we wrap up a major collaborative effort with the Training and Doctrine Command (TRADOC) and the Center of Military History (CMH). Last December, the Executive Director of CMH, Mr. Charles Bowery, asked me to lead a Gender Integration Initiative by designing a multimedia toolkit that would give unit leaders across the Army the historical context, materials, and tools to educate their Soldiers about the Army's experience with the post-9/11 integration of women into combat arms. With the support of many offices across our command, the Museum Educator, Elijah Palmer, and I had the privilege of creating several exciting and innovative products. You can read more about this endeavor and check out the "Trust Transcends Gender" website link later in the newsletter.

The AWM was also host to the Confederate Naming Commission visit in September. Commissioners Admiral Michelle Howard, Mr. Jerry Buchanan, and Mr. Laurence Romo visited Fort Lee to hold a series of meetings and focus groups about selecting a new name for the fort. The consolidated staff of the Fort Lee Museums put forward the name of LTC Charity Adams, Commander of the 6888th Central Postal Battalion, whose story is told at the AWM! If you would like more information about the Commission or if you would like to recommend a name, you can go to <https://www.thenamingcommission.gov/>.

Finally, we have welcomed a new staff member, Danielle Hackbarth, and a few new volunteers onto our team. It is great to have so much help in the museum as we have welcomed almost 9,000 visitors since reopening to the public in March. I hope you all stay safe and enjoy the new season.

Our “Hello Girl” exhibit will expand...

Marie Louise Ruffe was a “Hello Girl” telephone operator in support of WWI.

“Hello Girl” Uniform is on the Way

A reunion is in the making! For many years, the AWM has been home to the archival collection of Marie Louise Ruffe, a telephone operator during World War I. Ruffe’s collection is filled with amazing documents that capture her life from arrival at Ellis Island to her death in 1975. In 1918, Ruffe volunteered to work as a bilingual telephone operator with the American Expeditionary Forces. She was trained in New York then sent overseas to work in Paris and Verdun. Now, Ruffe’s uniform will be transferred from the Signal Corps Museum to the AWM and will go on display in the Origins of Service Gallery. This is a wonderful reuniting of the archives and artifacts that represent Marie Louise Ruffe’s amazing life story.

HELP US SAVE MONEY ON POSTAGE!

We need your help. Currently, we send out snail mail thank you letters to all donors who have not shared their emails with us. We also send out the quarterly FAWMA FOCUS via the Post Office. If you could send us your email address, we could send the donor Thank You letters and the newsletter electronically. This will reduce our postage costs as well as paper and printing costs. Send your email to ltfawma@gmail.com along with your name and address so we can ensure we update it properly in our database. We would really appreciate your help in reducing our costs.

Gender Integration Initiative woven between AWM and CMH...

The Gender Integration Initiative was launched on September 15th on the AWM and CMH Webpage. <https://history.army.mil/genderintegration/> The Initiative, led by our staff at the Army Women’s Museum, is a multimedia toolkit designed to give unit leaders the historical context, materials, and tools to education their Soldiers about the Army’s experience with the post-9/11 integration of women into combat arms. The project is designed not as a lesson plan, but rather as a conversation starter to show the changing roles of women in the Army over the past 20 years. Hosted on both the AWM and CMH websites, the page contains an overview video, an interactive timeline, a facilitator’s guide, and other additional resources to allow the user to interact with various aspects of the gender integration story at their own pace. The project has received positive feedback since launch, with people noting that it is engaging and consumable. One of the women featured wrote the museum to say she was very touched that we had highlighted her story, and a former Ranger was very glad that the Cultural Support Teams that he worked with in Afghanistan were represented.

“Trust Transcends Gender” was introduced by GEN (R) Martin Dempsey

“FAWMA Focus” is published four times a year to inform donors about what the Association is doing to support the U.S. Army Women’s Museum.
